ARAMARK BUILDING COMMUNITY: How Our Partners Are Helping and How We're Helping Our Partners

Branches, Our ABC partner in Miami, is serving more than 800 meals a week, and has set up drive-through meal programs.

COMMUNITY PARTNERS LEND A HELPING HAND

During these uncertain times, many of our employees and clients across the country are lending a helping hand. Year-round, our Aramark Building Community (ABC) partners across the country are on the front lines, providing emergency support services, helping families learn about nutrition and hosting workforce education programs to help them succeed in the workplace.

But now, during these unprecedented times, they are working harder, ensuring that many of these same community members — as well as several new families who never faced food insecurity before — are receiving a meal each day. With states adhering to social distancing policies, our community partners have developed best practice procedures through car pick-up lines or walk-up pick-ups to ensure they can still “deliver” meals efficiently.

Through ABC, we also provided much-needed grants to support many of our local ABC partners across the country in their ongoing efforts to provide community members with food during the COVID-19 pandemic.

In Minneapolis at Oak Park and the Martha O'Bryan Center in Nashville, both of our partners are continuing to serve families to hundreds of people each week. They have needed to reduce staff in their food pantries to ensure social distancing among the group as well as safe food handling of pre-packaged to go meals for families lining up. In Nashville, the Martha O'Bryan Center was one of the only five food banks left open in a neighborhood that is a food desert.
